

The total cost to the FCC for renewing my existing amateur radio vanity call sign is about $1. The existing fee that the FCC now charges me for this renewal is much too high, and there is no justification for the proposed increase. Amateur radio vanity call sign assignments should be lifetime, just like my commercial FCC license, instead of requiring renewal (like my commercial license used to).